BY D.C. HARVILL
The Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center will not close, according to school and government officials who met this week to discuss the center's future.

Pearl River Community College President Dr. Ted Alexander met with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph Monday to explain the college's position regarding the center.

PRCC will continue to offer college level courses at the center as long as the county wants them to, but state statutes do not allow it to continue expending funds for high school level classes, according to Alexander.

"We have a lot of work to do in Hancock County and plan to be here for years to come," Alexander said.

Alexander presented to the supervisors a letter from George Moody, director of the State Board of Community and Junior Colleges, stating that the school is spending most of its ad valorem tax support on high school programs.

The letter instructs the college's board of trustees to develop a plan to "reduce and ultimately eliminate the expenditure for secondary programs."

Alexander said the college could still operate the high school program but the local school districts would have to fund it.

Operation of the center has cost the college $202,000 this fiscal year, but would only cost the school district $109,000, Alexander said.

The school district can operate the center more cheaply than the college because of the difference in salaries and benefits between the two and because school districts get more revenue from the state.

"We're not in a situation to take on any additional financial responsibility," Randolph said.

"We don't intend to put you out there and say 'get after it.' We will help you any way we can," Alexander said.

The college board of trustees should be willing to allot $70,000 to the school district the first year to help with operation of the center, he said.

"If we don't retain possession of the center we will ask that the millage for its maintenance be turned over to the county or city, whoever operates it."

Students from Hancock and Bay St. Louis-Waveland school districts and St. Stanislaus High School attend the center.

Only one school district can operate the center, but several can help fund it, Alexander said.

Randolph expressed concern that the college has not upheld its obligation to maintain the building and that the center will be turned over to the school district while still in need of costly repairs.

Alexander assured the board that it had already taken action toward repairing the building and would do so before giving it to the district.

Gaynell Roberts, a county school instructor employed at the center, presented to the board of supervisors at their meeting Tuesday morning a 1,500-name petition opposing the college's action.

"If it is illegal for them to operate, why have they been taking our taxes to run an illegal program all these years and now want to pull out? I think we need a public hearing," Roberts said.

Board President Ronald Cuevas informed Roberts that it had no choice; the action was mandated by state law. The county's arrangement with the college just had not been questioned until now, he explained.

Fires banned in county as dry weather persists

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has approved a temporary ban on burning in the county.

The approval, granted Tuesday at the request of Hancock County Forester Mark Jamieson and County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, is designed to reduce the high number of wild-fires that have been occurring due to dry weather conditions.

Jamieson said the board has enacted such bans in the past. On Sunday alone, there were 15 brush fires in Hancock County, the forester said.

Through the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the forestry service has the authority to refuse to issue burning permits based on atmospheric conditions alone. Lack of rainfall is not considered, which is why Jamieson asked for assistance from the county.

In addition, as county fire official Marsh has the authority to prohibit bonfires and outdoor rubbish fires whenever local circumstances or atmospheric conditions make such fires hazardous.

Jamieson commented that Hancock County had fared better than Harrison County; but as of Tuesday the average was still six to eight fires per day.

His statistics indicate that by Tuesday, 52 fires had burned 746 acres since the beginning of March. The largest fire was in the NASA buffer zone south of the Salem Community and covered 95 acres.

"The majority are arson," Jamieson said, explaining that arson includes fires set deliberately as well as some categories of fires set through careless acts, such as tossing a cigarette into dry brush.

"We're one of the top four or five counties in the state for arson," he said. "It's a tradition that they include the three coastal counties, Pearl River County and Lamar County."

"It's very difficult to catch someone on this kind of arson, because you have to have a witness."

He said about a third of the county's woods fires start when fires set for a specific purpose get out of control.

In the early 1900s through about 1920, a large part of Hancock County was open range used for grazing cattle. In a few

Lawmen using roadblocks to find out-of-state tags

BY DENA BISNETTE

People who are Hancock County residents but do not have Hancock County tags on their cars need to change them.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said his department is setting up roadblocks during March and April and will be ticketing residents with improper tags and drivers' licenses.

He said his department looks for such violations all year long, but targets them in March and April as daylight hours increase and good weather makes it easier and safer to maintain roadblocks.

In addition, summer residents with out-of-state tags have not yet moved in.

Other violations are being checked, such as inoperable tail lights or expired inspections stickers, because "people will get things fixed if you ticket them," the sheriff said, but the tags are the major target of the roadblocks.

"We have already given out numerous tickets," he said.

"You know if folks let their children off at school, they should have a Mississippi tag unless they're using someone else's vehicle."

State law gives new residents 30 days to get a Mississippi car tag and 60 days to get a Mississippi license.

Navy signs international agreement at space center

BY D.C. HARVILL

Representatives of the United States Naval Oceanographic Command at Stennis Space Center and an official from the agency's Republic of Korea counterpart signed documents Monday reaffirming a 30-year-old cooperative agreement between the two nations.

According to the agreement, the Naval Oceanographic Command will provide technical support and materials for surveys along the Asian country's 2,400-nautical-mile coastline.

It will also provide instruction in survey equipment use and survey techniques.

The Republic of Korea will provide land access, a vessel, crew and equipment to conduct the surveys.

Rear Admiral James E. Koehr, Commander of the Naval Oceanographic Command and Rear Admiral William J.M. O'Connor, Deputy Director of the Defense Mapping Agency signed the agreement for the United States.

Kim, Kwang-Duck, director general of the Korea Office of Hydrographic Affairs signed the bilingual agreement for the Korean government.

The United States has similar agreements with a number of countries around the world, according to George Walker, head of the Hydrographic Programs Division at the Naval Oceanographic Office.

The U.S. has had such an agreement with Korea since shortly after the Korean Conflict, Walker said.

"Hydrographic surveys precede issuance of nautical charts and are necessary for the development of a nation's marine economy, and are essential to safety at sea," Walker said.

The Defense Mapping Agency will provide chart planning and production assistance.

William D. Fuller, 25, shot himself in the head with a 22 caliber revolver while standing in the front yard of a Keller Street residence shortly before 7 p.m. Saturday, according to Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn.

There were witnesses to the shooting, Dorn said. According to Coroner Harold Stiglet, Fuller shot himself just behind the right ear and the bullet did not exit.

Poplarville man hurt in truck/van crash

BY D.C. HARVILL
 A Poplarville man was injured Monday in an accident on Highway 603.

James Lacouno was driving southbound on 603 when the pickup truck he was driving was struck by a Volkswagen van driven by Jeff Martin of Bay St. Louis.

Martin, trying to cross the highway at the Central Avenue intersection, did not see Lacouno approaching because his view was obstructed by a large crane parked by the roadside, according to Mississippi Highway Patrol investigating officer Glenn Grice.

After the impact, Lacouno's truck spun around and rolled over, onto its top, Grice said.

Martin was taken to Hancock Medical Center in private vehicle by his wife. There were no other injuries, Grice said.

Grice was assisted at the scene by officers from the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Youth injured by gun remains hospitalized

BY DENA BISNETTE
 A Pearlinton teenager wounded in a shooting accident Monday remains hospitalized in Slidell, La.

Herbert John Pedarre III, 17, was in stable but guarded condition in the surgical intensive care unit at Slidell Memorial Hospital Wednesday, Hospital Spokesperson Carol Wolfram said.

Pedarre had been injured in the right side and the right hand at about 3:30 p.m. Monday when he was hit by birdshot, apparently at close range, Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda said.

Hoda said the 17-year-old had apparently left the gun by the back door of his residence and his nine-year-old brother picked it up. The younger boy did not realize the gun was loaded, Hoda stated.

The teenager's grandmother took him to the hospital for treatment.

"We encourage people to make sure that guns which are loaded can not get into the hands of children," Sheriff Ronald Peterson said, "because they don't realize if they're loaded or what they're doing."

"This (accident) is a sad thing, but these things happen, and we as adults need to take precautions."

He cited the possibility that younger children may imitate what they see on television, which now shows a large number of programs involving police officers and firearms.

In addition, the sheriff recommends gun safety classes to teach children how to safely handle firearms. The sheriff's department does not offer such classes at present, but Peterson said Bureau of Marine Resources offers safety instruction for children as young as seven years old.

areas, people still follow the tradition of burning off land for grazing, and in others, hunting clubs burn the underbrush from their territory.

"Some of it just starts with trash fires that get away from people," he added.

The forestry service can charge the people who set such fires for putting them out and may prosecute in Justice Court if they refuse to pay. Jamieson said the current maximum fine is about $200.

Jamieson said he is asking the public for cooperation in preventing wildfires. While no burning is permitted until weather conditions change, anyone who needs to burn after the ban is lifted should contact the fire tower at 255-7152.

"That way, we won't have to send a unit to check it out. We'll know where it is and we'll be able to keep an eye on it. If it gets bigger than it should be, we'll know it's getting out of hand," the forester said.

He is also asking that people telephone the fire tower, which is on Fire Tower Road in Rocky Hill, regarding possible arson or suspicious activity that might result in arson.

In the event he and his staff of 12 are fighting a fire or otherwise unavailable, callers should instead contact the Hancock County Sheriff's Department at 467-5101.

PROPERTY RECOVERED

The burglary of a summer home in Waveland has been discovered as a result of an investigation into a different crime. Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda, who has been working with other authorities on a case involving a number of boats stolen in Hancock County, said that case led to finding out about the other crime, which could have occurred anytime within the past eight months.

Hoda said one of the people charged with grand larceny in the boat thefts, Lynall Terry of Amar Street, Waveland, had told him about taking a boat from a particular summer residence in Waveland.

"We found out the home had been broken into and a number of things had been taken. We called the owners and they said some of things were antiques," the investigator said.

A check of some of the shops in town resulted in the recovery of some of the items taken, which included a tandem bicycle, small pieces of furniture, a microwave oven, stereo and television equipment, garden tools and other property, Hoda added.

As a result of the investigation, Luther Heidelberg of Waveland was arrested Tuesday and charged with receiving stolen property.

The investigation is continuing with Hoda in charge.

STOLEN DOGS

Hancock County authorities are looking for someone who stole six pedigreed pups from a Rocky Hill resident.

Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay said the owner of the dogs, Louis Peterson of Rocky Hill, reported the theft on March 3.

Seay said three of the animals, which are registered rotweilers that were being sold for $400 each, have been recovered. The dogs had been sold to two Hancock County residents.

One of the others was reportedly run over by a truck, and investigators feel that the other two may have been taken out of Mississippi.

Seay said because of the value of the dogs, the charges against the person or persons who took them can include grand larceny.

Anyone having information about the theft may contact Seay at 467-5101.

Homeowners need to apply now for exemptions

Each year Mississippi homeowners are given the opportunity to apply for Homestead Exemptions by April 1.

As January 1, 1989 rolled in, the Hancock County tax assessor's office mailed Homestead Exemption forms in returnable envelopes to all property owners who claimed the exemption last year.

The majority of property owners responded to the request and returned the forms, some had to be resent because of address changes. A follow-up post card was also sent to those who had failed to respond.

On Tuesday of this week, Edward Murtagh, tax collector/assessor, reported there were still some 500 homeowners who had received Homestead Exemptions in 1988 who have not as yet responded.

The receipt of Homestead Exemption by a qualified homeowner can mean a savings of up to $420 or more in county and school taxes, reinforcing the importance of filing for this tax break.

Qualified property owners who have not received a Homestead Exemption form or need further information may contact the assessor's office at 467-5727.

It is good news to many when a volunteer fire department is formed in their community.

One of the more recent departments in the formation stage is the Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department in Standard Community.

It is good to see improvements throughout the county in a number of fire departments.

The formation of the Standard unit now supplies the entire county with some type of fire protection.

Last Sunday the Fenton Fire Department held an open house to display their facilities.

In Hancock County today there are paid fire departments in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead and at the Stennis Space Center.

There are also eight volunteer fire departments, not to mention the fact there are volunteers for the paid departments.

Some 30 years ago there was only one paid department of two people in Bay St. Louis and a volunteer department in Waveland.

As a volunteer firefighter I can well remember the fire drills in Waveland. The equipment in those days wasn't very much and was about worn out. I can remember testing the hoses and having over half of them burst.

There is still a need for volunteer firefighters, according to Jay Marsh, Hancock County fire marshal.

Marsh indicated there is a dedicated group of about 150 volunteers in the county, but most are getting up in age and youthful persons are needed.

Anyone interested in further information about being a volunteer fire fighter can contact the department in their area or Marsh at 467-9226.

I spoke to State Senator Gene Taylor late Wednesday on the telephone to see how things were going at our State Capital.

Senator Taylor has been busy with emphasis being placed on several bills.

Those bills include the William Winter Scholarship Fund, the Fresh Water Diversion and Certificate of Need for a Nursing Home in Bay St. Louis.

While the Legislature is in session, Taylor remains busy representing the constituents he serves.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mississippian plots strategy for moving state forward

A Jackson businessman with no political or personal axes to grind has written a book which he calls "More than Survival: One Man's Plan to Move Mississippi Forward in the 21st Century."

All the way from developing a stronger middle class to a proposal to put the state into the casino gambling business, Robert L. Berman has laid out a prescription for solving Mississippi's economic dilemma which, to say the least, will spark immediate controversy.

Berman, who is a highly successful food broker, painstakingly put together facts and figures showing why Mississippi stands economically and educationally as low man on the nation's totem pole.

But he offers hope that Mississippi, relying on its own resources and adopting innovative ideas, some of which politicians have been loathe to touch, can become a socio-economic leader in the Southeast as well as nationally.

The 57-year-old businessman, an Ole Miss and Harvard Business School graduate, sees the two greatest problems Mississippi has to confront are better education and adequately financing state services. He doesn't believe you can solve one without solving the other.

Mississippi has, by spending so much of its time living in the past, developed what Berman calls a "land of shacks and Cadillacs"—a socio-economic structure which is primarily made up of haves and have nots.

"This lack of a strong middle-class society is another reason for the lack of economic and social growth in the state—the fact that there has never been a broad base of wealth from within," he writes. "Mississippi has never had a strong, financially secure, well-educated large middle-class society," he adds.

Berman points out that in 1987, only 8.1 percent of Mississippi households had an income of $50,000 or more while 42.2 percent had incomes of less than $15,000.

Average per capita income of Mississippians, which reached a high of 71.1 percent of the national average in 1977 has dropped to under 67 percent in the latter 1980s.

Utilizing its strategic location as a "Crossroads of the South," Mississippi is in an ideal position to develop a major distribution center, the Jackson businessman says.

Potentially by 2011, Jackson could be the distribution point for a market of 70 million people, he says.

To better utilize its higher education dollars, Berman calls for the closure of Mississippi Valley State University, Mississippi University for Women and Alcorn State University and making Delta State into a liberal arts college.

Since Mississippi does not have the taxable wealth—and an already high per capita tax burden—Berman contends that the state must look for other sources of revenues to meet the educational and social needs of the people.

He calls for the state to find some $150 million in new revenues by getting into the state-owned gambling business. He proposes operating a state lottery, locating horse and dog racing in the Pascagoula and Gulfport areas, and turning Cat Island off the Gulf Coast into a Mississippi-run version of Monte Carlo.

Berman's idea of connecting Cat Island to the mainland by a four-lane causeway revives an idea which was pushed by some Gulf Coast visionaries almost 30 years ago to build a causeway out to Ship Island.

Now, as Berman points out, Cat Island is the only barrier island off the coast which is not in the federally controlled Gulf Islands National Seashore and further, is only seven miles offshore.

His plan—together with architects sketches—is for the state to develop a 10-story, 300-room resort hotel and gambling casino on Cat Island, with the profits and income going to the state.

Mississippi, he argues, could offer a "supermarket" casino with better odds than available in Las Vegas or Atlantic City and thereby could pull in a sizable chunk of the millions of gambling dollars that are now going to Nevada and New Jersey.

Conservatively, Berman estimates that Mississippi would net $15 million a year in revenue from the Cat Island Casino. Hotel concessions and taxes from the increased tourist business on the Coast would further enhance the revenue generated by the venture.

Another $50 million could be derived from a state lottery, and Berman estimates that the two race tracks would produce another $20 million.

Hometown News from the Capitol City

By Mississippi Reporting Service

It was a quiet week at the state capitol, every legislator's three-month hometown. This week is traditionally the last time lawmakers have to catch their breath before plunging into the final decisive weeks of the 1989 session.

After voting on controversial issues like charity hospitals last week, lawmakers spent most of their time in committees the last of February and the first days of March.

It's not that they weren't busy; legislators were just working to meet the deadline for committee action on bills that began in the other chamber.

Though there were a number of votes later in the week, few were eye-catching. Most floor actions were standard agency appropriations or workmanlike fine tuning of state laws such as increasing the compensation of court bailiffs.

Sen. Margaret Tate voted with the majority to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages on ships that dock on the Coast. The bill had previously passed in the House.

In the House, Rep. J. P. Compretta voted with the majority in favor of a bill that would make the state personnel board director serve at the discretion of the state personnel board. The measure, which had previously passed in the Senate, is subject to recall.

The committee action this week sets the stage for the major legislative action and issues still to come. Among them are:

Equity funding: the House Ways and Means Committee amended a Senate-passed measure designed to reduce funding disparities between rich and poor school districts. Both the House and Senate versions of the bill call for school districts to levy around 25 million for schools.

Government reorganization: A special Senate committee sent the full chamber a scaled-down version of Gov. Ray Mabus' plan to consolidate state agencies.

The House has a more far-reaching proposal. Mabus says $32 million can be saved, while the Senate version saves $5 million. Both bills are likely headed to a conference committee, where House and Senate negotiators will try to iron out their differences.

Parole Board: The Senate Corrections Committee has approved the House's bill that created a full-time, five-member parole board. The current part-time board is overworked and has been sued for releasing some prisoners who later commit violent crimes.

Charity hospitals: The House has voted that they should be closed, the Senate that they should remain open. If neither body changes its position, a conference committee settlement lies ahead. Mabus can still close the three facilities via a veto, and it is unlikely hospital supporters have the votes to override.

HOUSE

SB 2816. With a vote of 95 to 24 and three absent or not voting, the House passed a Senate-approved bill that would make the state personnel director serve at the discretion of the state personnel board. Gov. Ray Mabus had wanted the power to appoint the position. Compretta, yes.

SB 2232. The House overwhelmingly passed a bill that will allow state narcotics agents to put wiretaps on the phones of suspected drug dealers. The vote was 110 to 7 with 5 absent or not voting. Compretta, yes.

SENATE

HB 985. The Senate approved a House bill that will allow municipal tax sales to be conducted at a county courthouse. The vote was 44 to 4 with 4 absent or not voting. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

HB 601. With a vote of 42 to 9 and 1 absent or not voting, the Senate passed a House bill that allows the sale of alcohol on boats that dock on the Gulf Coast. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator Trent Lott

Expectations of 101st Congress

Things are off to a quick start as we begin considering legislation during this 101st Congress. Even from the Senate side of the U.S. Capitol, the intense pace in Washington never ceases to amaze me.

After my 16 years as a representative, and now as your senator, I am always anxious to start debate on a new piece of legislation from the House floor or the Senate chamber.

I have already jumped right into the fray sponsoring a bill to repeal section 89 of the 1986 tax code. While the goal of this particular section is to increase employer-sponsored benefit coverage for lower paid workers, its complexity has and will continue to cause problems for the employers and the employees.

My biggest concern is that employers will simply eliminate health insurance and benefit coverage for employees and their families in an effort to ease their own frustration with the problem. This is a potential problem that must be corrected.

I would like to take this opportunity to update you on what is happening in Washington, or at least give you some insight on major issues that this Congress could be facing during the upcoming year.

At the end of the 100th Congress the House and the Senate passed an omnibus drug bill to set forth a plan to put a stop to the growing drug crisis in this country. We cannot afford to sit back and watch this tragedy devastate our society. We must protect our children of today and the generations of tomorrow.

Of course, we are all concerned with the budget deficit facing our nation. It is vital that we take a serious look at this problem and find ways to solve it.

President Bush has committed himself to this overwhelming task, with a pledge not to raise taxes. I believe it can be done, and I will work with the President to help him achieve this goal of reducing our deficit without further taxation of the people.

Not only do we constantly struggle with the battle of the deficit, but we continue to see an increasing number of the U.S. thrift institutions facing failure in our present system. We must help the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation regain stability in order to protect you, the depositors.

But there are several other issues we will have to address. Education, child care, health care and the environment are also at the top of our agenda.

There is a possibility we will see reauthorization of the Clean Air Act, efforts to help working families provide better child care, and also some legislation involving health care and the need to continue funding of such programs as Medicare and Medicaid. These are all vital issues to the nation and to the people of Mississippi. We must be aware of the particular needs of our young, as well as our seniors.

As we move along through the year, I encourage you to take an active role and monitor what is happening in Washington.

Please feel free to write me and express your concerns and feelings about these issues and others that interest you.

My address in Washington is 487 Russell State Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510. I was elected to represent all of you, therefore, it is vital that I stay in touch with the issues that affect you and the State of Mississippi.

Religion, literature, philosophy topics of USM public forum

National and regional experts will explore the relationship between religion, literature and philosophy during a University of Southern Mississippi public forum series set for March 20-21.

"Religion and Contemporary Interpretation: A Public Humanities Series" will feature lectures and debate by acknowledged authorities on such subjects as Christian fundamentalism, the ideas of philosopher/theologian Soren Kierkegaard, the reading of religious texts, interpretation and allegory. The sessions, all of which are open to the public without charge, also will include audience discussion.

The line-up of speakers and topics promises lively debate, said Dr. Ronald L. Burr, program co-director and a USM associate professor of philosophy and religion.

"We've certainly got a well-rounded approach," Burr said. "We're not going to have people standing up there agreeing with each other."

The series will be held in Shoemaker Auditorium, Room 106 of the Chain Science and Technology Building. Back-to-back sessions of 15 to 40 minutes each are scheduled from 1-4:45 p.m. and from 7-8:30 p.m. Monday, March 20; and from 9-11:45 a.m., 1-5 p.m.

and 7-8:30 p.m. March 21.

Co-sponsored by the USM English and philosophy/religion departments and the Honors College, and partially funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities through the Mississippi Humanities Council, the series is coordinated with a University Honors Forum lecture at 7 p.m. March 21 by Dr. Mark C. Taylor.

Taylor, the author of some nine books and contributor to more than 100 publications, is a religion professor at Williams College. His Honors Forum presentation is titled "Understanding Fundamentalism."

State colleges to produce black opera

The University of Mississippi is one of four state institutions collaborating with a Harvard professor to produce a black gospel opera that will showcase Mississippi talent.

"Look What a Wonder Jesus has Done"—written by Walter Robinson, a fellow at the W.E.B. DuBois Institute at Harvard—will be performed at Rust College in Holly Springs on Aug. 12-13, and at the Dallas (Texas) Art Museum during February 1990.

Collaborating in the event are the music department of Alcorn State University, Jackson State University, Rust College and Ole Miss.

Mississippi singers will be cast for most of the parts, Robinson said. "My conception for this opera was to use authentic untrained gospel voices that to me are so amazing. There's a richness of tradition here. I feel that Mississippi and the South have to be part of the development of the opera."

Auditions will be held at Jackson State University on May 20 and at Ole Miss on May 27.

Initial funding for the project has been provided by the Charles Engelhard Foundation. "It is a classical opera based on the Denmark Vesey slave rebellion in South Carolina in 1822 that draws on traditional gospel voices for its performance," Ferris said. "It's also a dramatic new step in that it bridges different institutions which each bring rich resources to the production."

Meadows names four assistant district attorneys

BY DENA BISNETTE
Interim District Attorney Joseph Meadows, appointed by the governor to succeed Glenn Cannon, has appointed four staff members and is expected to choose a fifth assistant this week.

DeWitt Allred, the assistant district attorney originally assigned to Hancock County under Cannon, will continue his assignment here.

Allred said William Martin and Wes Teel were appointed earlier this week and assigned to Biloxi, while Ron Feder will serve as assistant district attorney in Gulfport.

Allred said Meadows is expected to make a fifth appointment sometime this week. The person appointed to that post will also be assigned to Gulfport.

Teel has served as an assistant district attorney before, but resigned eight months ago, citing a lack of leadership on Cannon's part as his reason.

Martin is also a returnee, having served as an assistant to Cannon's predecessor, Cono Caranna.

Suit against county nets firm $40,3000

BY D.C. HARVILL
A company suing Hancock County was awarded $40,300 by a jury in Circuit Court Friday.

Southland Incorporated, owned by Ronnie Blackledge, sued the county for damages allegedly incurred when the company was paving a taxiway at Stennis International Airport in 1984 and 1985.

Allegedly, the engineer under contract to the county, Dr. Michael Smith, refused acceptance of paving material that was not called for in the project specifications.

The contractor, represented by attorney Rusty Gill, claimed the refusal caused the project to run eight days over deadline, at a penalty of $265 liquidated damages per day.

The jury did not return the penalty to the contractor.

Lucien Gex, the attorney hired to represent the county in the case, said since the company had been paid $303,000, the suit was "merely a case of greed."

Gex said he plans to submit a motion requesting that the amount of the claim be reduced by $28,000, the cost of paving material the contractor allegedly did not deliver.

The motion is based on instructions to the jury by Judge James Thomas that were confusing, Gex said.

In the instructions, the jurors were told that if the engineer thought the material was an equal substitute for the material originally specified but refused it anyway, they should award damages to the plaintiff.

But if the engineer did not think it was adequate when he refused it, jurors were told, they should find for the defendant.

The original claim against the county asked for a judgment of about $80,000, Gex said.

Spring & Summer FASHION

Wearable, classic clothes hallmark of spring '89

As the new spring season approaches, women are undoubtedly wondering what innovations, practical or whimsical, the fashion world is going to dictate.

Rest assured! Last spring's gimmicks, which most sensible women rejected, are no longer alive in the fashion world. The clothes that look best this season are unfussy and very wearable. The direction from many American collections shows up as a clean-cut look with a curve—plus a few hidden perks.

Dresses and suits that are new, yet tailored, for town or office, and wonderfully self-assured. They also can be electrified with a bright shock of color. Dressing is terrifically individual, allowing for a display of elements of personality that women demanded ages ago.

Leap into spring with the season's forte—stunning jumpsuits that offer sophisticated, alternate one-piece dressing. From tailored to tantalizing, these one-piece collectibles cover all bases—from office to resort wear.

Another piece that glides from day into evening wear is the sarong skirt. These skirts are draped, wrapped and slung low on the hips. With an air of the exotic, this body-skimming skirt is perfectly flattering in a vivid floral or a smoky pastel and is simply indispensable this spring!

Variety is what pants are all about. Many are light and airy, to caress the body, not confine it. These pants, low-waisted and less structured, fly and float on air.

Wide pants co-exist with narrow, long with short, catering to the needs of the wearer. They all look right.

Pleats once again show up in full force. Pair any of the new pant looks with a jacket, and you're ready for a night on the town.

Designers let their own attitude prevail resulting in a barrage of color, florals, stripes and shine. Floral, particularly daisy patterns, plus blue and white stripes and chic dot prints bespeak the charm of the season.

The theme of days gone by on Coney Island reappears in several designer lines. Many collections reflect an easy yet traditional kind of attitude. Free-spirited sportswear is reinforced, as comfortable pieces go dotty!

Decorative details add personality to classically-inspired designs. Yet ornamentation is reasonable—metallic embroidery, scalloping woven into necklines, hems and collars, bright grosgrain ribbon trimmings, or simply a slash of bold, bright, modern color. Other strong influences this season include folkloric motifs and Western and Indian details.

The scarf is not just another accessory this season. It is transformed into a sarong skirt, blouse, dress or belt. With the focus on the upper body, the possibilities are endless, when using scarves at the neckline.

Thankfully, length is no longer an issue, probably due to most women's refusal to play musical hemlines. The long and short of skirts coexist side by side. Movement and proportion are important instead. Fabrics are sheerer, and structure is looser and more fluid.

The shape of things to come is the pyramid. It is a reversal of the past few seasons, which consisted of a fuller silhouette on the upper body, over slim pants and skirts. The pyramid comes in the form of swing dresses and width concentrated at the ankles.

Many designers give some old classics a new look. One such classic is the nautical motif for spring. It is transformed by softness, sparkle and bareness.

The basic T-shirt is no longer simply white and cotton. Try this old favorite with sequins or embroidery, or in a sheer fabric. Crisscross and cutouts in back and front reveal bare skin unlike ever before!

The important news this season is that each designer has decided to break out and do what he or she excels in. The end result is that Seventh Avenue has answered the demands of the modern woman with a range of unique, exciting alternatives from which to choose.

Play of patterns

Pattern gains interest at all levels. Newest is the contrast of two patterns used together—one on top of another, or related in separates.

Renewed interest in woven topweights paves the way for varieties of print and pattern. Three-dimensional badges and logos still make news, especially when treated with a sophisticated hand.

Options exist across the board for spring/summer '89. A variety of elements in color, fabric and design make for an exciting season.

Antiquity is inspiration

What's new in fine jewelry for spring is old—more specifically, ancient!

Jewelers of America, Inc. (JA), the national organization dedicated to consumer information and education about fine jewelry, reports one of the hottest "new" trends is the lush, old, historic looks categorized as "Byzantine," "Medieval" or "Celtic."

This is accomplished by designers using matte-finished high karat gold or sterling silver that has been scrolled, beaded, twisted or stamped to create designs with a historical flavor. Interest is added with polished metal contrasts and/or accents of emerald, ruby, amethyst or tourmaline cabochon-cut gemstones.

Other fine jewelry news and trends for '89 are as follows:

• Neckwear—Choker lengths are still enormously popular, especially in karat gold but with fancier, sometimes open or stamped links. Beads and pearls look best in longer lengths, and are combined with gold chain for the Chanel appeal. Beads are now combining different colors, shapes and textures together in one piece.

• Wristwear—Variations on the theme is the story for tennis bracelets, updated with fancy diamonds or colored stones with diamonds, and featuring more gold. Bangles are back, this time with or without gemstones and diamonds. Also, look for "semi-rigid" styles resembling cuffs when closed. Nostalgia from the '50s brings back the charm bracelet.

• Rings—Still bold but not huge, rings feature large colored gemstone centers framed in diamonds or gold, and asymmetrical styles with sweeps of diamonds and gems. Also important are channel-set baguette diamonds, fancy-shaped diamonds and more colored gemstones.

• Earrings—Still hot are hoops, some with gems. Look, too, for openwork gold and filigree designs for big impact at smaller prices! On-the-ear styles will have gently curving shapes to replace the large, ribbed designs of the past.

• Pins—Still popular are the classics of yesteryear—bars, circles, flowers—as well as novelties—insects (yes!), animals, figurative designs. Diamond accents are distinctive. Romantics will seek out cameos, filigree, Deco and Art Nouveau looks of original or reproduced antiques.

• Watches—Fancier dials and wider bezels are newest. Also featured is the "oversized" watch with a crushed leather soft bracelet. Decorations, such as moon phases, second hand dials and date dials are popular. Straps to focus on are dark green, bright fashion colors and luggage tan.

Discover your fashion image

By EMILY CHO

Never has image been such an important part of our lives. Never have image and fashion been so much in the public eye—and in the public consciousness. You can't open a magazine, flip through a newspaper, turn on the TV, without seeing something about fashion.

Watching the who, what and where of it can be fun. It's when you get to the "how" that so many of us feel the fun ebbing and the fear flowing in. So much seems to ride on being savvy about fashion—the career you break into, the men you attract, how good you feel about yourself.

The secret of dressing well is much the same as the secret of doing anything well: Know what you're doing and why you're doing it—in other words, following the rules.

The secret of dressing superbly well—individually, strikingly, joyously well—is knowing when and how to break the rules. However, you really do have to understand the rules first.

If we were all born alike, fashion could be reduced to mathematics. Take a black suit, add a white blouse and you're dressed for business—no matter whom you are or what your business is.

But, the fact is, we're not all alike; each of us is an individual and expressing our individuality is one of the real highs of living. Indeed, getting to know yourself is the main joy of maturing.

The real challenge is how do you and where do you start to define your individuality? The surest way is to start with the six essential image-types, and discover which one you feel yourself to be. Are you a Classic-Elegant or an Arty-Offbeat? A Sporty-Casual or a Sexy-Alluring? A Feminine-Romantic or an Exotic-Dramatic? Not exactly sure which image-type you are? Find out now. Answer the questions that follow.

1. If you could be born again, who would you most like to look like?

A. Christie Brinkley
B. Jackie Onassis
C. Diana Ross
D. Diane Keaton
E. Jane Seymour
F. Rachel Welch

2. Which kind of makeup makes it for you?

A. No makeup
B. Understatedly perfect
C. Highly dramatic
D. Very à la mode
E. Palest possible
F. Vibrant and glossy

3. Assuming your hair would cooperate, what style would you choose?

A. Short casual cut
B. Shoulder-length, blunt cut swinging hair
C. Hair sleekly pulled back away from your face
D. Frizzed hair
E. Long, wavy hair
F. Full, softly layered hair

4. If your body could wear it, which would your soul be happiest in?

A. Crisp cotton camp shirt and pants
B. Ivory wool gabardine suit
C. Slim shift of magenta hammered satin with big shoulders, skinny push-up sleeves, narrow short skirt
D. Narrow leather pants and oversized blazer
E. White Victorian lace summer dress
F. Red sequin mini-dress

5. What would you wear to a large cocktail party to make a "knock-out" impression?

A. Colorful silk blouse and black skirt
B. Simple black dress
C. Evening tunic over black pants

D. 1940s print dress
E. Mauve silk dress
F. Low-cut electric blue dress

6. Which texture turns you to jelly at a touch?

A. Soft tweed
B. Silk
C. Thin, fine suede
D. Antique cut-velvet
E. Angora
F. Satin

7. Which is the one piece of jewelry you'd feel naked without?

A. A gold chain necklace
B. A Cartier watch
C. A strong brass or pewter choker
D. An Art Deco belt
E. An old cameo pin
F. Diamond drop earrings

8. Which kind of colors color you happy?

A. Primaries
B. Pale neutrals
C. Black
D. Offbeat, neons
E. Soft pastels
F. Electric red and electric blue

9. Assuming your shape is no problem, which clothing shapes are you most drawn to?

A. Crisp and linear
B. Sleek and defined
C. Angular and asymmetric
D. Oversized and unconventional
E. Soft and flowing
F. Body-hugging

10. Which compliment would delight you the most?

A. "You're so much fun to be with."
B. "You have such elegant taste."
C. "You have fantastic style."
D. "You're so creative."
E. "You look like a dream!"
F. "You're always a knockout!"

Scoring

If you have six or more A's, you're a Sporty-Casual; six or more B's, a Classic-Elegant; six or more C's, Exotic-Dramatic; six or more D's, Arty-Offbeat; six or more E's, Feminine-Romantic; six or more F's, Sexy-Alluring. If your score divides more or less evenly among several letters—for example, four A's, three B's, three C's—you're the image-type of the letter that scored highest, with a greater than average potential for crossing over into another image-type from time to time.

Don't worry. Finding your image-type will not restrict you; it will free you because it simplifies your life. It doesn't leave you lost and wandering in the pages of the fashion magazines, or poking through the department stores and boutiques trying to find your dress or jacket or blouse out of the avalanche of new styles that come out each spring and fall.

When you've sorted out your image, you've already sorted out the kind of clothes you're looking for, before you've even stepped inside the store. And that's the biggest way to save time, energy and money. Even better, it's the surest way to look your best.

Spring signals return to nostalgic romance

Aerobics are out. Ballroom dancing is in: A nostalgic mood is quickly sweeping the nation, affecting everything from music and art to spring fashions and jewelry.

According to a recent article in the New York Times, men and women are enjoying big band music and ballroom dancing more than ever before. Why? It's fun, social and romantic, and provides a reason to dress up and feel pretty.

Last year's frou-frou party looks can still be seen on the dance floor, but dresses that are sleek, bare lots of skin and move with the body are what are tripping the light fantastic this season.

To dazzle this dramatic silhouette, real gold jewelry with a fabric look and feel is the newest way to enhance a woman's wardrobe.

Perfect for nighttime elegance or to dress up a day look is the new "velvet" finish in gold. Appearing as if brushed with stardust, the velvety look is often mixed with contrasting surfaces for added drama.

One of the most important pieces of jewelry a woman can wear is a beautiful gold pin. There are fun, spirited designs, such as a salamander, statuesque ballerina or graffiti-like doodles that can add an element of surprise to any look. For example, securing a flowing chiffon scarf, on the shoulder of a dinner jacket or blouse lapel. Another attraction—semi-precious accents light up these whimsical, frosted pins with subtle touches of color.

Gold earrings bear a new air of sophistication and add a feminine touch to curvaceous day suit or pleated evening gown. Whether ribbed or wrapped, the soft finish and sculpted dimension give the illusion of drapery and billowing fabric.

The hoop remains the season's favorite, with bigger, more substantial style that make a strong fashion statement and draw attention to swept-back hairstyles. Evening soirees call for clothes that glide across the dance floor à la Ginge Rogers. Sheer fabrics such as organza and chiffon move with the body and also create the right backdrop for a beautiful gold necklace and/or bracelets.

Gold rope is tied loosely around the neck in a simple lariat or accented with a brushed, leather centerpiece. Gold bangles, a staple many women already own, anchor the bare look, especially in a stack of mixed styles—etched, frosted and shiny—climbing up the arm.

When asked about the appeal of dressing up, socialite-turned-fashion designer Carolynne Rochin replied, "It makes me feel feminine," which proves the point that the recent surge of nostalgia has shed new light on the art of living well and looking good.

FASHION

Pearls are jewels of choice for completing classic look

In a season where fashion designs may seem as different as the individuals who create them, spring '89 has been termed by many as the "season of our discontent."

With options for consumers being a driving force behind many Seventh Avenue collections, hemlines of varying lengths and silhouettes ranging from hard to soft will be readily available for women across the nation.

However, if one can locate a common ground in the mainstream of designs for spring, it could very well be seated in the distinctive styles of Hepburn and Bacall, with a hint of Chanel.

From Blass and Klein to Lauren and Restivo, a civilized ambience of smoky cafes, Porter melodies and dry martinis has settled on many Seventh Avenue collections.

The classics are back and cultured pearls, which have never fallen from grace, will undoubtedly be the jewel of choice for spring '89.

Daytime togs for spring will be characterized by crisply tailored jackets paired with lightweight skirts or silk pants.

In suits, while the trend toward paring down the shoulders is taking effect, "Crawford-ish" silhouettes will still be casting shadows in the boardroom and at the clubhouse. Bold Chanel-inspired buttons will prevail en masse.

Lustrous cultured pearl chokers (about 16 inches) in single and double strands will be worn enticingly under smart blouse and jacket ensembles.

A long opera length necklace (about 36 inches), placed under upper lapels and emerging at the notch, will show a bit more flash and still remain elegant in appearance.

Warm spring evenings will be painted in fabrics from chiffon and organza to white satin and metallic lame. While the lines generally will be a bit softer, closer to the body, and slightly sexier than in years before, the feeling is still reminiscent of moonlit dances by the lake shore.

Long strands of cultured pearls in either rope or sautoir length (about 60 inches), worn over deep V-neck or high collar dresses, are a romantic diversion and will help accent subtle curves of the body.

A triple strand choker or a triple strand matinee necklace (about 22 inches) with a stunning gold and jeweled clasp turned to the front, is ideal for boatneck and bustier designs.

Complementing the variety of styles this season, there are also a number of interesting ways to wear a pearl necklace and show one's fashion savvy.

Draping a strand of pearls from the breast pocket of a blazer is a creative answer to the conventional pocket square.

An opera length necklace folded over and attached to the top of a jacket shoulder by a brooch will make a stunning epaulet of cascading pearls.

Keeping in harmony with this spring's retrospective return, cultured pearls continue to hold their place in fashion's forward ranks.

And like the women of a simpler era, the cultured pearl, with its subtle lustre and warm glow, will continue to reveal an inner charm without giving away any secrets.

THE CLASSICS ARE BACK and cultured pearls will undoubtedly be the jewel of choice for spring's nostalgic fashions. Three strand cultured pearl necklace with Mabe pearl clasp and matching earrings courtesy of the Cultured Pearl Association of America. White silk crepe jacket by Akira.

Fashion focus for stylish kids

This spring, the fashion focus is again on feet, especially for kids. Comfort and style are key, as evidenced by the introduction of new sneaker lines and eye-catching accessories.

Mary Ann Duffy, president, Footwear And Accessories Council and Leah Levy, children's editor of a leading trade publication, Footwear News, identify some of the season's hottest trends for kids:

- Canvas shoes and sneakers, including classic, plain sneakers such as Keds, and trendsetters like Reebok and L.A. Gear, will be prominent. The latest addition to the sneaker revolution will be high-tops with laces that stop half way up the sneaker, for a casual, sloppy look.

- Lightweight sandals will be popular. Thongs or flip-flops will resurface as popular footwear.

- Laces will be a big focal point for boys and girls. Look for decorations such as stars, hearts, "diamonds," rhinestones and beads to adorn them.

- To help keep laces tied stylishly, there are Bow Biter shoe fashion accessories.

- For girls, the emphasis will be on dress shoes featuring embroidery, metallics, dots, bows and ribbons. Shades to watch for include pink, yellow, lavender and French blue. Boys' preferences will lean toward athletic shoes in bright colors, or black and white and two-tone oxfords.

- When and if children wear socks, they'll be frilly and feature lots of detail.

Caire

Sure, and just about everyone's Irish on St. Patrick's Day, at least at heart! And, whether you plan the Irish-American style menu of corned beef and cabbage in honor of the day, or whether you prefer the "Auld Sod" traditional repast of salmon, smoked or otherwise, let's top the meal off with a cheering cup or mug of Irish Coffee as we pay tribute to the saint.

The salmon has often been called the national dish of Old Erin, its prominence stemming from the Emerald Isle's earliest days, prized as a delicacy and star at the banquets of the Kings of Ireland, often roasted on a spit (the salmon, not the kings) and well rubbed with salt and honey, or slow-simmered in a large pot.

Since I haven't a whole salmon in the larder, I'll settle for a bit of smoked salmon or salmon steak or even croquettes, I suppose. And, if you prefer the more Americanized fare on St. Patrick's Day, you'll enjoy the corned beef and cabbage tradition which early Irish immigrants in America established when they landed on our shores, fleeing the potato famine in the old country.

These Irish Americans often added potatoes, making a good, substantial dish. There's more fanfare in our country, as a matter of fact, over St. Patrick's Day than in all of Ireland, so I am told—for in Ireland, St. Patrick's Day is more of a religious holiday, involving a three-day period of devotion to the patron saint of the country.

But, I'm sure that the celebration will include:

IRISH COFFEE

For each serving, place one or two teaspoons of sugar, or perhaps a dribble more, if you've a really sweet tooth, into a stemmed goblet or a cup. Next, add enough hot, very strong black coffee to dissolve the sugar, and stir well. And, if you're using a stemmed goblet or glass, be sure to prepare the glass first by filling with hot water for a second or so, then pouring the water out, or else by standing a silver or other spoon in the glass, lest you break the glass, whether it's Ireland's pride, Waterford, or something else.

Next, add a generous jigger (1½ ounces) of whiskey, preferably Irish whiskey, although bourbon will do, and fill the glass or cup to within an inch of the rim with the coffee.

Float a very generous tablespoon of whipped cream atop it all—but be careful not to mix the cream into the whiskey-laced coffee, just sip the coffee through the cloud of cream atop!

You may, of course, omit the whiskey, but you won't get that wonderfully wicked Irish glow—though it's still a treat to sip the coffee slowly through the cloud of cream!

P.S. And, let's not forget St. Joseph's Day on the nineteenth of March—stuffed artichokes, anyone?

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Cabbage offers good nutrients

The cabbage could rightfully boast of its family—its age, its size, and its illustrious members. It belongs to one of the oldest and largest vegetable families.

It is a nutritious vegetable of 4,000 years standing in food history, and it is usually a thrifty vegetable.

The first descriptions of hard headed cabbage were written 1536 A.D. However, history tells us it grew wild in Asia Minor for thousands of years before that time. In America, we eat more fresh cabbage than any other vegetable except potatoes.

Cabbage is generally classified into five distinct types: Danish, Domestic, Pointed, Red and Savory.

Danish is solid-head, late-maturing cabbage used for storage and late marketing purposes; also used for sauerkraut. The usual shape of its head is round and oval.

Domestic has heads reasonably solid, flat or round. Domestic cabbage is grown for early season market, and practically all marketed as fresh cabbage.

Pointed is readily recognized by the conical or pointed head. It is largely replaced on the commercial market by the Domestic type.

Red cabbage is identified by its red or purple color with head solidity somewhere between Danish and Domestic. It's used principally for pickling and salad purposes.

Savory is grown usually as a specialty crop. The pronounced crumpling of the leaf tissue throughout the head and the yellowish-green color readily identify this type of cabbage.

When selecting cabbage, regardless of the color and the shape, look for these characteristics—solid firm heads, heavy for their size, with leaves of good color—to insure maximum yields and avoid waste. Leaves that are fresh, crisp, free from insect injury or bruises—to insure freshness, good flavor and texture.

Fresh cabbage requires special care. Remove any withered leaves and wash and dry the head. Store in a covered container in the refrigerator. Wrapping the head or cut portions in waxed paper or a damp cloth before storing will retain its freshness longer.

Treat cabbage well during cutting, cooking and serving. Shred or slice cabbage with a sharp knife. It not only looks better, but it keeps its vitamin C better if leaves are not bruised during cutting.

To further ensure retention of food value and crispness, cut just before serving. If it is necessary to store cut cabbage, put in a covered container in the refrigerator until time for use.

Cabbage is a good source of vitamin C. Cabbage also contains small amounts of other food nutrients. Cabbage is usually a cheaper source of vitamin C than that found in citrus fruits. An extra bonus is its low calorie content and good roughage quality.

Cook cabbage quickly—serve it soon. If cooked only until crisp-tender, much of its original delicate flavor is retained.

Shredded cabbage requires only three to eight minutes boiling time; wedges 10 to 12 minutes. When cabbage is just done, season it with table fat, salt and pepper, then add one of these for variety:

- * Caraway or celery seeds
- * Chopped chives or parsley
- * Dried basil or curry or add cheese, hollandaise sauce, or sour cream seasoned with lemon.

Seafood cookbook proceeds benefit Scranton Museum

Many visitors to the Coast relish the delectable seafood concoctions prepared by area restaurants. But, while most people enjoy a good meal out, many would rather test their culinary skills at home.

One of the joys of cooking with seafood is the variety available. Be it fish, crab, shrimp, oyster, crawfish, or whatever, few foods melt in your mouth like a well-prepared seafood dish.

Pascagoula's Scranton Museum has recently compiled a seafood cookbook to help those looking for that special recipe. The Flagship Festival Seafood Cookbook represents a collection of seafood recipes entered in the museum's annual seafood cooking contest.

Cookbooks are available by sending $3.50 to: Seafood Cookbook, Scranton Museum, P.O. Drawer 908, Pascagoula, MS 39567.

Proceeds from the sale will go towards the operation of the Scranton Museum, a retired shrimp boat/natural history facility located at Pascagoula's River Park.

Horsing Around

First show of the season for Horse Show & Rodeo Assoc.

BY GAIL RIDOUT

Saturday was a long, hot and cold day. It was—at least for those people who attended the first horse show of the season.

This first show of the season was sponsored by the South Mississippi Horse Show and Rodeo Association (SMHSRA) at the Lizana Arena in West Harrison County. The judge for the day was Bob Wascon.

"Our first show was a great success," said Betty Doucet, SMHSRA president. "We had lots of old and new competitors and numerous spectators."

The day started for most of the judged competitors early in the morning. By 2 p.m., when the judging started, it had turned into a rather warm day. At this point I had to seriously question myself, Why was I there running around getting this horse and my daughter ready for competition when I could be relaxing on the beach soaking up the sun's rays?

I never had any answer other than I was crazy. But I suppose most parents of children who compete in any sport have similar questions and answers.

Even though I have not been to many horse shows, I knew by about 7 p.m. that it was going to be an even longer day than I had first anticipated when the show wasn't anywhere near finishing the judged events.

The timed events, which come after the judged events, almost always take longer and have more competitors.

Each riding club in the association was assigned to work during some of the classes. My assigned classes to work didn't start until about 12:30 a.m. (YES, it was now Sunday morning). I finally was able to go home about 3 a.m.

No, the show did not end at 3 a.m. but Betty did tell me later that the last competitor was finished about 7 a.m. Sunday morning.

The high points winners for the day were ponies—Jason Smith on Lady; 12 & under—Heather Lott on Ebony Winsalot; 13-17—Jackie Odom on Lady Slick Champ; Ladies—Ricki Doucet on Tiffany's Exclusive; and Men's—Roger Ladner on Maries Boy.

"I would like to thank everyone who helped make this first show a great success," said Doucet.

SSC defeats State Champion Biloxi 7-4

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw baseball team took a major step toward gaining statewide recognition Tuesday night as they defeated the defending State Champion Biloxi Indians 7-4 at Hollis Field.

It was the first home game for the Indians, whose record is now 4-2-1. Earlier in the season the Rock-A-Chaws and the Indians fought to a 2-2 tie at St. Stanislaus in a game called after seven innings due to darkness.

"Everyone on our ballclub gave a superb effort," said SSC Coach Mike Gemelli. "We played nearly flawless ball through 6 1/3 innings. We were up 7-0 and had the possibility of a shutout."

But Biloxi was not to be denied, as they scored four unearned runs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Leading the Rock-A-Chaws were Marc Matherne, Lloyd Nicaud and Greg Schuff who each had two hits. Sophomore Kevin Jacobi blasted a triple to deep centerfield and scored the first run for the Rock-A-Chaws on Mick Quinlan's infield grounder.

Winning pitcher was Cedric Smith who in four innings allowed three hits but no earned runs. Relief pitcher Lloyd Nicaud pitched the final three innings and gave up only one hit.

The Rock-A-Chaws exploded for 10 hits off Biloxi ace Gernie Hopkins. SSC scored a run in the second inning, four runs in the third inning, and two runs in the sixth inning to take a comfortable 7-0 advantage going into the last inning.

Biloxi is ranked as the No. 1 team in the state by vote of the sportswriters, and Laurel is ranked second. On Friday, the Rock-A-Chaws host Laurel at the SSC diamond. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

In the preliminary junior varsity contest against Biloxi, the Indians prevailed 12-6. The Rocks held a 6-5 advantage after two innngs, but Biloxi had a big five-run third inning to pull away from the Rock-A-Chaws.

Coach Gemelli stated, "I am very proud of our ballclub. They gave it everything they had against Biloxi. I believe they are beginning to realize they can accomplish anything they want if we play together as a team and encourage one another." "What made this victory so satisfying was that I felt everyone contributed to this win. But the Biloxi game is history, and now we must concentrate on Laurel Friday afternoon."

Bay Youth Soccer names district playoff teams

Bay Area Youth Soccer is now in the final phase of the spring season. After eight weeks of league competition, the first and second place positions for all teams going to District Playoffs have been determined except for the Under-16 Boys Division.

With just over two weeks remaining in the spring season, teams are now determining their final standings.

Teams going to district playoffs are as follows: In Under-8 Division the teams are Sweepers first and Raiders second.

In Under-10 the teams are Falcons first and Jaguars second.

In Under-12 the teams are Hurricanes first and McDonald Realty second.

In Under-14 the teams are Sidekicks first and Excalibur second.

Girls teams in Under-10 through Under-16 will also be going to District Playoffs.

The Under-16 boys and the Under-19 boys will go to playoffs as well, however, the Under-16 positions have not yet been determined.

Under-12
In Under-12, in a Thursday afternoon game, the Burger King Whoppers were defeated by McDonald Realty 2-1. The Whoppers' goal was scored by Joshua Wilson. Coach Laurent congratulated the team for its "teamwork and hustle" exhibited in the game. Jerry Peoples and Jeremy Moore were cited for their excellent defense. Goalie Tommy Marsh continues to make good saves and is showing improvement in each game.

Under-10
In Under-10 play, Coach Demboski's Jaguars defeated Coach Lenfant's Hurricanes 4-0

Under-8
Hurricanes 5-0. Coach Laurent stated that even though they lost the game, the team made a fine defensive effort.

Goalies Jerry Peoples and Leo Laurent made some fine defensive plays. Sean Ziegler and Jeremy Moore played defense well, and forwards Joshua Wilson, Jerry Peoples, Leo Laurent and Mike Saunders moved the ball well in the game.

Ross Pitcairn, John Guy, Vincent Smith, Todd White, Doug Richardson and Skip Rhodes showed improvement in their positions.

The Whoppers will be participating in the Gulf Breeze Tournament in Florida March 17 and 18.

In Under-10 play, Coach Demboski's Jaguars defeated Coach Lenfant's Hurricanes 4-0 and secured second place in the Under-10 Division for District Playoffs.

Goals scored for the Jaguars were obtained by Cooper Lader, Ty McMichael and Cory Ray. Goalie Justin Boudouin made several fine attempts at stopping the Hurricanes at scoring.

Defensive players Kyle Mann and Seth Johnson were commended for most improved players of the day.

Coach Flowers' Rotary Falcons defeated Coach Foster's Bay Rats team by a score of 2-0, in an exciting game played by both teams. Paul Campo scored the two Falcon goals on passes from excellent teamwork by the Falcon players.

Under-8
In Under-8 play, Coach Steve Carver's Sweepers defeated the Raiders by a score of 5-3 in an excellent and exciting makeup game played on Thursday.

On Friday another makeup game by the Raiders ended in a victory for Coach Ross' Raiders, defeating the Stingers. Raider goals for the games were scored by Matt Powell, John Mullen, Chris Flowers, Chad Develle, Nicholas Middleton, Jonathan Gagnon and Tommy Kimbrell.

The victory secured second place in the Under-8 Division for the Raiders.

Under-14
In Under-14 Boys competition, Coach Bernard Tusa's Sidekicks defeated Coach Ross'

Excalibur team in overtime by a score of 1-0.

The Excalibur team had won the game Saturday by a score of 2-1 to bring both teams to a 1-1-1 record for the best of three games.

Since both teams were tied in the series, it became necessary to play overtime to determine the first place position for the BAYS Under-14 Boys Division.

The goals for the Sidekicks were scored by Joe Dobson in this exciting competition.

There has been a high powered rivalry between these two teams and the intense zeal and spirit by which these teams play has made a very exciting series of games. The closeness of their games indicates how evenly matched they are and should provide a good showing in district competition.

In addition to the other games played this weekend, the BAYS Under-10 Girls Team coached by Bernard Tusa, defeated the Gulfport Showboats by a score of 9-1.

Return of the wild turkey marks management success

By Eva Ann Dorris
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

In 1987, 65,722 wild turkey gobblers were killed legally in Mississippi. That's a remarkable amount considering that just a few decades ago, there weren't even 10,000 wild turkeys in the state.

Despite being heavily hunted and relied on as a major source of meat for early Mississippi settlers, wild turkeys flourished in the state during the 1700s and 1800s, and their presence is documented as early as 1690.

But with the turn of the 20th century, Mississippi's Eastern species of wild turkey began its demise, and by the early 1930s extinction seemed imminent.

In his publication "The History of Mississippi's Wildlife Monarch, The Wild Turkey," Malcolm Commer Jr. said that around 1900, sweeping changes began to occur in the state.

The rapid destruction of habitat and an almost total neglect of wildlife conservation produced a devastating effect on the turkey population.

Many wildlife biologists and historians fault the methods of the early timber industry and a lack of enforceable protection from hunters as the main reasons for Mississippi almost losing one of its most majestic wildlife species.

"During the early 1900s, we only had 3,000 to 4,000 turkeys in the whole state," said Dr. George Hurst, wildlife biologist and professor at Mississippi State University. "And those were in the large river bottoms and swamps where man couldn't get to them. Otherwise, we would have killed them all."

During this time, massive land clearing and commercial timber cutting took place, thus destroying much of the turkeys' protective natural habitat. They became victims of starvation and greedy hunters.

Although some efforts to restock the wild turkeys began in 1918, organized efforts didn't begin until 1932 with the establishment of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission, now the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation. However, by this time, the state's wild turkey population was on the verge of extinction.

During the next two decades, the commission tried to restore the wild turkey population by buying pen-raised turkeys and turning them out in suitable habitats to breed with wild turkeys.

"These were not wild turkeys and they never established a wild turkey population," Hurst said. "They were looking for feeders, and they were sick, and they had disease."

"Finally, with the idea to catch wild turkeys and move them to suitable habitats, what we call trap and transfer, the population just took off," Hurst said.

In 1953 the state's turkey population reached 10,000 turkeys with established flocks in 46 counties.

The trap and transfer technique proved to be a success, but the MGFC still faced the problems of illegal killing of the birds.

"We've shown that probably the limiting factor for wild turkey other than suitable habitat is protection from us—man," Hurst said. "Turkeys are killed by about 30 different things in the wild, but I don't worry about that. What I worry about is us." It wasn't until the 1960s, when the population was becoming large enough to support the legal sport of turkey hunting, that the attitude of most turkey hunters changed from greed to respect.

The estimated turkey population in 1960 was 35,000 birds. As turkey numbers continued to increase, public awareness did too. Private citizens began to take an interest in the restoration of the turkeys and the sport of hunting—not just the killing.

From the 1960s dedicated efforts of the MGFC and concerned hunters and landowners resulted in a rapid increase in turkey populations.

By 1979, the estimated population reached 200,000 birds. In 1986 population estimates were at 350,000 and today, Hurst estimates the population at 400,000.

"Our annual harvest of spring gobblers is now over 50,000," Hurst said. "We are harvesting more now than we had in the entire state only a few decades ago. One of the greatest success stories in wildlife management is the return of the wild turkey."

Wild turkeys are common to most of Mississippi. Only the northeast part of the state is lacking turkeys, and the MDWC is still working to relocate wild turkeys to that area.

St. Stanislaus tennis team downs Biloxi 3-2

SSC junior Mike Cromwell used some superior ground strokes and an attacking game to overcome Matt Randol 6-1, 6-1 to set the tempo as the St. Stanislaus tennis team defeated Biloxi 3-2 on Tuesday afternoon in Biloxi.

Also posting victories for the Rock-A-Chaws were Manning Montagnet, who called upon his athletic ability to dominate his match against Lee Jones 8-2.

The doubles tandem of 8th grader Myron Labat and junior Robert Schutt outclassed their opposition in a 6-2, 6-1 victory for the Rock-A-Chaws.

The win against powerful

Biloxi brings the SSC season record to 2-2. The Rock-A-Chaws are playing a tough schedule which includes some of the best high school tennis teams in the state.

"We hope to benefit from this tougher schedule which includes eight matches with 5A schools," commented SSC tennis coach Myron Labat.

The Rock-A-Chaws are in Class 4A, and resume action against Bay High on Thursday, March 23 at the St. Stanislaus tennis courts. Next week the Rock-A-Chaws take their third quarter examinations, so no matches are scheduled.

Baseball grandstand planned for USM

The University of Southern Mississippi has announced a fund-raising drive to build, through private funds, a grandstand and press box by next season at Pete Taylor Park, the school's baseball facility. The grandstand will be the latest in a series of improvements to Taylor Park, already considered one of the nation's finest facilities.

The new grandstand will provide reserved chairback seating for 1,578 fans, increasing the seating capacity of the stadium to 3,000. The seats will extend from dugout to dugout, 20 rows high.

The new press box facility will handle all media, (news-paper, radio, television), public address and scoreboard operations. New parking for season ticket holders, restrooms, concession area, storage and ticket facilities will also be added.

The $400,000 needed to construct the newest stadium additions will be generated through private funding by selling each seat in the grandstand for a one-time fee of $250. This will entitle the purchaser to select the location of the seat and have his/her name placed on that seat for the life of the stadium.

Included in this one time $250 package will be a 1990 season ticket. A 10-percent discount on each season ticket purchased thereafter will also be included. The one time $250 price of the stadium seat will be tax deductible.

The construction of the grandstand and press box facilities at Taylor Park will enable USM to bring college baseball events such as the 1990 Metro Conference Championship and the NCAA Regional playoffs to the campus.

It would also provide the city of Hattiesburg with the facilities necessary to host such events as high school playoff and regular season games, semi-pro baseball, major league exhibitions, plus Connie Mack, American Legion and Dixie Majors tournaments.

Baseball fans can order and select their seats in the new grandstand at the USM Athletic ticket office in Green Coliseum or by calling 601/266-5418.

Flipping and pitching for more bass

In recent years, the technique of "flipping" has become one of the most effective ways of catching spooky bass out of thick cover in shallow water. Basically, it is a variation of vertical jigging in dingy water with a plastic worm of jig, and it has been credited with numerous national tournament victories.

Even more recently, tournament anglers have modified the flipping technique, changing it for use in clear, shallow water where bass are extremely wary. This new technique has been named "pitching," and it is best described as long-distance flipping.

"The advantages of flipping are that they let an angler present a lure very quietly, naturally, and accurately to a bass," explains Evinrude Outboard Pro Staff member Denny Brauer.

"While flipping is normally done right beside the boat, pitching places the lure 30 to 40 feet away with the same accuracy and quiet approach.

When bass are shallow in clear water lakes with heavy cover, or when bass are spooky because of heavy fishing pressure, pitching is an excellent way to approach them."

Brauer, recognized as one of the nation's experts at flipping and pitching, points out that pitching isn't difficult to learn, either, although gaining accuracy will take practice.

The best pitchers, he says, can consistently drop a jig into a paper cup at 40 feet.

To learn pitching, Brauer recommends using a long 7 or 7½-foot rod as in flipping, although shorter casting rods can also be used.

Open face spinning outfits work extremely well and are used by some pros.

"Pull about three feet of line off the tip of your rod," instructs Brauer, "and begin by holding the rod parallel to the water, just like you'd be starting a normal overhead cast. Bring the rod up sharply to about the 11 o'clock position, and then make a quick flick of the wrist, bringing the rod down like an underhand roll cast.

"It's really easier to do than to describe," Brauer laughs, "but what you want to do is sent the lure out low over the water the same as in flipping.

You might even describe pitching as a speeded-up flip. You use the speed of your wrist and rod movement to give the lure momentum."

Lure control is done by feathering the reel and by raising or lowering the rod. Basically, however, the rod should be pointing at the intended target as the lure lands.

"The most critical aspect of pitching," believes Brauer, "is developing an awareness of what your lure is doing. In flipping, most of the lure movement is vertically, but in pitching the lure moves horizontally.

"Actually, once your jig or worm lands after a pitch, most of the time you crawl it along the bottom or through the cover just as you would after a regular overhand cast.

What pitching does is let you put your lure in the same spot as casting, but without any nose or splash, and with more accuracy."

Unlike flipping, notes Brauer, anglers often pitch a lure repeatedly to the same spot, a technique frequently necessary to tempt spooky bass into striking.

"I can remember several tournaments on Florida's Lake Okeechobee that have been won by pitching," says Brauer. "The water there is very clear and the bass often hold around small clumps of grass in water less than three feet deep.

"We'd pitch worms to them four or five times, crawling the lure through the grass, before we'd finally get a strike.

"You couldn't move closer to the weeds to make a flip, nor could you make a regular overhand cast, because either one would spook the fish."

Boat control is extremely important in pitching, says the Evinrude Motors pro, because an angler has to realize when he's close enough to make an efficient pitch.

This comfort range of fishing develops with practice, and as an angler becomes more and more efficient, his pitching distance will increase.

Brauer recommends anglers work their lures with rods pointed high because of the increased sensitivity this gives. He also believes pitching fishermen should become dedicated line watchers.

"You won't always get a bone-jarring strike," he says. "Often, you won't even feel anything, but if you watch your line and develop an awareness of what your lure is always doing, you'll see strikes."

"As you're learning to pitch and work a lure, don't hesitate to set the hook if you think you may have a bite. It doesn't cost anything to swing your rod, and it only takes a split second to learn if you're right."

Entries sought for cat show

Is your feline cat show material? Fluffy or Sylvester doesn't need a pedigree or any special tricks to enter the Southern Sunshine Feline Fanciers' Third Annual Cat Show on the Beach to be held April 8 and 9 in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Exhibition Hall.

Non-pedigreed cats compete in the household pet division for ten final places in each of four rings.

The coveted Morris Trophy will be awarded to the cat with the highest combined score in all four rings. Only household pets are eligible for the Morris Trophy.

To qualify for household pet competition, a cat must be at least four months of age, may not be declawed, and cats eight months or older must be spayed or neutered.

Entrants are judged on health, cleanliness, condition, beauty and personality.

For entry information, contact Lena Bath (875-1913) or Linda Jones (872-2974). Instructions on showing your cat will be sent with entry confirmation. All entry registrations must be received by March 28.

In addition to household pets, pedigreed cats from up to 32 different breeds will compete in kitten, championship, and premiership classes at the show.

Abstract art allows artist to simplify complicated feelings

Diamondhead artists to study Picasso

Special to the Echo
By Coella Longanecker
Cold weather forced a small turnout of dedicated artists to paint inside the Community Center at the regular March meeting of the Diamondhead Art Association.

Attending were Debbie Fernandez, Pat Garcia, Bobbie Quimby, Dorothy Booth and Virginia Webster. Lorraine Paillet brought doughnuts and hot tea, Coella Longanecker brought coffee so everyone nibbled and sipped in between brush strokes and talk.

Jerry Plante, artist and poet of great talent and depth, died March 6. The Diamondhead Art Association will greatly miss his dedication and help in making our little group interesting.

An art appreciation discussion will be held at the April 3 meeting. A panel of members including Lorraine Paillet, Dorothy Booth and Bobbie Quimby will lead the discussion.

All members are asked to study up on Picasso for this event and be ready to contribute their thoughts and theories on this 20th Century artist.

Since Picasso was an "abstract" artist, perhaps this article is the perfect place to try and define what "abstract" art is.

No single definition seems entirely satisfactory but the most important thing to understand is that well-done abstract art has as much structure behind it as does "representational" art.

Most abstract artists started their careers doing representational work and have a good background in traditional art concepts. Abstract art has been called a "total departure from any reality" and to "possess no recognizable thing." It is sometimes "non-representational" and "devoid of specific likeness of any kind."

While abstraction may be derived from a particular subject, it may or may not be recognizable. Recognition is not important but the rules of good organization and the principles of composition, design, value and so on, certainly are. Don't be fooled into believing that any one can "do" abstract art without first paying dues by learning and practicing these principles.

Abstraction can also begin with a theme, a mood or a conjecture... or even less tangible concepts than these. Look at the works of Modrian, Rothko, Barnett Newman and Kenneth Noland. The principles of composition still apply.

Transparency and interpenetration and working with light and shadow are used in the works of cubists Picasso, Braque, Gris, Legar and others.

This interplay of planes may be obvious and subtle, but understanding structure behind an abstract work gives a deeper understanding of the subject or mood as well as the artist's intent.

Webster's dictionary explains abstraction as an act or process of separating inherent qualities or properties or something from the actual object or concept to which they belong.

An abstract painting is described as having its intellectual and affective content depending solely on intrinsic form. To take away. To summarize.

It is my belief that abstract art is all this and more. It is to me the artist's way of expressing in a simplistic form the complicated feelings, mood, the faces of inner self and the human condition in relation to nature and universe. We all abstract Mother Nature's work.

For those of you who think you would like to join the Art Association but feel you have no talent or originality to share, please remember these words of Robert Henri, "Don't worry about your originality. You can not get rid of it even if you wanted to. It will stick to you and show you up for better or worse in spite of all you or anyone else can do."

So...join us. Monday, April 3 at 1 p.m. at the Community Center for a panel discussion on "Picasso, His Life-His Work."

Justin Wilson to headline 'River Extravaganza'

Results during the first full week of ticket sales for this spring's Pearl River Community College "The River Extravaganza" have been good, according to Donna Wilson, director of PRC's Development Foundation, which is organizing the fund-raising event.

"People have been asking me all year long when they could buy tickets to this year's Extravaganza," Wilson said.

She said the success of last year's event, which featured entertainment by Jerry Clower and earned $9,000 for scholarships and teaching equipment at the school, has had a lot to do with getting people interested in this spring's production, which is scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday, April 30, and will feature Cajun Comedian Justin Wilson.

She added that while many people enjoyed Clower and are excited about the chance to see Justin Wilson, the success of the food festival and auction portions of the event are even more popular than expected.

Even the participating restaurants were looking forward to a repeat performance. Last spring there were nine area restaurants which served their house specialties, which included everything from blackened fish and oysters on the half-shell to steak and various pastries.

Wilson said that two additional restaurants have already agreed to take part this year and she is still talking with several others.

The restaurants who have already committed to participation are Poplarville's Laynes Fried Chicken; Don's Seafood Restaurant; Paul's Pastry, The Woods and Uncle Chester's of Picayune; Strick's Bar-B-Q of Hattiesburg; Kermit's Kabin of Bassfield; Western Corral of Columbia; Bradford's Seafood of Pass Christian; Chappy's of Long Beach; and Lil' Ray's of Waveland and Gulfport.

Wilson said she is hopeful the foundation will be able to sell all of its tickets, which are $25 per person for the event which plays a large role in the school's fund-raising efforts.

Last year the monies the Extravaganza generated helped fund 20 scholarships and made it possible for the school to purchase some much needed video for the school.

It also made it possible for the school to offer honorariums to professional speakers to appear on campus. Wilson said these speakers are an important part of the over-all education process at the college level.

Those who would like ticket information may contact the foundation office at 795-6801, ext. 383. There will be no tickets sold at the door.

by GCRL and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium.

Ms. Toups has also written a weekly birding column for The Sun Herald over the decade, and has contributed numerous articles to magazines, birding anthologies and journals.

Chevron drill rig: new profile on horizon

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1989-3C

Special to the Echo
By Mike Pickich
St. Stanislaus

That new dimension seen on the horizon about nine miles east of St. Stanislaus pier is a 26-story steel semisubmersible drilling rig named Transworld 70.

The giant rig is under contract to Chevron USA and currently is drilling for oil and gas in lease block 57 in the Mississippi Sound, about two miles northwest of Cat Island in an area known as Buoy Reef.

Mark Hellrich, drilling manager for Chevron in New Orleans, said in a recent speech to the Rotary Club luncheon in Pass Christian that the rig will drill to a total depth of about 23,500 feet.

It is Chevron's first attempt to hit paydirt at what is the site of Mississippi's first offshore gas well attempt. As of March 1, the well is down to a depth of 10,000 feet.

If successful, the well could represent an historic moment in the state's economic development of its natural resources. Hellrich said that his company will expend $28 million for a second well.

Both wells, he said, will be necessary in order to evaluate the production potential of the area. He cautioned, however, that even if the first well strikes natural gas, it will be at least two more years before drilling, confirmation, production and marketing will be put into play so that the first gas can be moved through the pipeline to the consumer.

The Transworld 70 rig was towed by tugboats from Houston, Texas to its location northwest of Cat Island, where is presently rests on the bottom of the Sound.

The drill crews are expected to send their "string" of drill-pipe over four miles deep into

THE COLOR OF CLOTHES

Clothing color can have a big impact on the way you look at the way you feel. Color influences body size appearance, body temperature, and even your mood.

Light-colored clothes make the figure appear larger and dark colored clothes make the figure appear smaller. So, if you want to look five pounds thinner without having to lose any weight, wear black, navy, burgundy, dark brown, charcoal grey and other dark colors.

You can also use a combination of light and dark colors to correct unbalanced figures. For example, if you are small on the top and large on the bottom, wear light colored blouses or sweaters with dark colored skirts or pants.

Bright colors can also add weight to the figure because they advance and stand-out to the eye. Dull colors do the opposite; they recede from the eye and take weight off the figure. Body temperature can be slightly raised or lowered when outdoors simply by the color of your clothes. White and very light colors reflect sunlight away from the body making it cooler. On the other hand, black and very dark colors absorb light from the sun, making the body warmer. This is the very reason tennis players traditionally wear white on the courts.

Yellow, orange and red colors create a psychological feeling of warmth. Research has shown that these are active colors that can make people feel lively, joyful, cheerful and exciting. Blue, green and purple are cool colors. They are passive and receding colors that can make people feel quiet, restful, somber and solemn.

Today, the variety of colors available in clothing is almost limitless.
